RE: Works Published on the Album Princess Diaries 3 Soundtrack

Dear Jonathan Moore:

This letter follows our email correspondence. We are writing to refuse registration on this GRAM application because of your assertion these two musical works were never published.

The GRAM PA application may be used to register up to twenty musical works if the following conditions are met:

- All of the works in the group must be contained on the same album;
- All of the works in the group must be created by the same author, or the works must have a common author;
- The copyright claimant or co-claimants for all of the works must be the same person(s) or the same organization
- All of the works must be first published on the same album on the same date. There is a limited exception to this rule for musical works that were previously published as an individual work before they were published on the album.
- A title for the album and a title for each work claimed in the group must be provided.

As submitted, your application provided these two musical works were completed and first published in 2024. When a cursory search suggested the album was released on bandcamp.com as early as 2016, we wrote to verify the publication facts. Your 4/14/2025 reply stated: “first released on 3/25/2016.” We provided the legal definition of publication and noted these musical works appear to be currently available for sale and download. On 4/17/2025, you stated: “The album was never published just for public display.” We followed up the same day to ask for clarification, and to explain that the GRAM application you submitted could not be used to register unpublished works, and you answered: “the album was never published.”

Because publication on the same album is a requirement for registration on GRAM and you state these two musical works have never been published, we must refuse registration. In accordance with our practices, we will retain the application, uploaded deposit files, and non-refundable filing fee.

You may file a Standard application to register each musical work. If you choose to file one of our specialized group applications, by regulation, please note that each has different registration rules and requirements. Claims that do not meet an application requirement may be refused.

This letter is for your information only; no response is necessary.

Sincerely,

Adam Friedman

Use this sheet if you request reconsideration

How to request reconsideration:

- Send your written explanation of why the claim should be registered or why it was improperly refused.
- On the first page of your Request be sure to include:
 - The Correspondence ID Number (listed under the bar code above);
 - The date you are submitting the request;
 - The ten digit case number / service request number that the Office assigned to the claim;
 - The name of the copyright claimants specified in the application; and
 - The title of the work exactly as it appears in the application.
- Indicate whether you are requesting a “First Reconsideration” or “Second Reconsideration.”
- Submit your request ONLINE: We strongly recommend sending all requests for reconsideration via email following these steps:

EMAIL YOUR REQUEST (BUT NOT THE REQUIRED FEE) to:

reconsideration@copyright.gov.

- The subject line should say “First Reconsideration” or “Second Reconsideration”
- The request - including any exhibits or supplementary information - should be submitted as one .pdf file.
- Once your email request is received, you will be contacted with instructions on how to submit the required fee.
- Failure to send your request for reconsideration to the above email address will result in a delayed response.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Your request and the required fee must be received by the Office no later than three months after the date the Office issued its refusal of the claim.

• Alternatively, you may submit your request VIA MAIL:

- IMPORTANT NOTE: Your request must be postmarked (via the U.S. Postal Service) or dispatched (via commercial carrier, courier, or messenger) no later than three months after the date the Office issued its refusal of the claim.
- Enclose the required fee.

- Address your request to:

FIRST RECONSIDERATION or SECOND RECONSIDERATION
U.S. Copyright Office
MCA Division
P.O. Box 71380
Washington, DC 20024-1380

First Request for Reconsideration ($350.00 per application): The Registration Program Office considers the first request. If it upholds the refusal, you may submit a second request.

Second Request for Reconsideration ($700.00 per application): The Copyright Office Review Board considers the second request. The Board consists of the Register of Copyrights and the General Counsel (or their respective designees), and a third member appointed by the Register. The Board's decision constitutes final agency action.

Notification of decision: The Copyright Office will send all notifications of its decisions by email to the email address provided in the record and/or in the request for reconsideration. If no email address is provided, the Office will send its decision via mail.

RECONSIDERATION FEES:

First Request $350 per application

Second Request $700 per application
